The screenshot shows the Minesite.com website interface. At the top left is the logo 'minesite.com' with the tagline 'Informed comment and independent mining news'. On the top right, it says 'You are viewing th' and 'Hello Richard Gotla | Log-in | Sign'. Below the header is a navigation menu with links: Home, News, Companies, Broker Reports, Service Companies, Investors and Economy, Minesite Jobs, Links, Calendar, and Webcast. The main content area features a news article titled 'STOP PRESS: Frontier Mining Produces Its First Co_' with a sub-headline 'That Was The Week That Was ... In London' by Alastair Ford, dated August 18, 2012. A sidebar on the left contains logos for Firestone Diamonds, CANGOLD LIMITED, and KOOTENAY SILVER INC.

Meanwhile, Edenville Energy announced drill results from its Mkomolo coal project in western Tanzania. The results confirmed the continuity of the coal measures on the deposit, as well as the grade, and Simon Rollason, the company's chairman, professed himself well satisfied. "The new drill results confirm the continuation of the coal measures identified in the 2011 programme", he said, "and will allow the current inferred resource base of 39 million tonnes to be expanded and the resource category to be upgraded, providing increased confidence to the quantity and quality of Edenville's existing resource at the Mkomolo coal project". Shares in Edenville fell by 0.25p to 0.19p.
